

National Work Zone Safety Awareness Week

Five-year-old Brady Stone listened as his dad, San Angelo Maintenance Crew Chief Jerry Stone, described witnessing the death of a contract worker in a San Angelo work zone in 2010. “That man never got to go home to his family or see his kids grow up,” he said holding back tears. “I don’t want to see that ever happen again.” His wife Lyndy and five-month-old son Barrett were also by his side.

Jerry spoke at the National Work Zone Safety Awareness Kickoff event held in San Angelo on April 19, 2012.
