Diversity, Equity, & Inclusion Message

Lesley Taylor (LT) Utility Specialist

Opinions are often shaped by our experience, beliefs, likes and dislikes. According to Forbes, difference in opinion is a normal part of human interaction. On the other hand, interaction can be toxic if not handled properly. During this time, it is very important that we look at what respect means to us and recognize respect may mean something different to others.

The Forbes article explains respect as an acronym that provides steps to ensure toxic workplace behaviors are held to a minimum. Below are the steps modified and adapted.

R - Reality Check - Respect the opinion of others when advocating on your own.

E - Empathize - Deep listening can bring about a peaceful solution.

S - Strategize - Determine where the toxic situation is stemming from and plan before acting.

P - Participate in Your Own Rescue - Be creative with your solutions and take necessary action to move yourself forward.

E - Engage Your Support System - Engage in a support system that creates positive reinforcement for minimizing toxic workplace behavior.

C - Collaborate with Known Winners - Collaborate with key individuals to create positive reinforcement in workplace change.

T - Tell Yourself The Truth - Self-reflect and respond accordingly.
